CALL FOR PAPERS

2021 Australian Coatings Show

“Resilience from Adversity...It's in our DNA”

Resilience... the capacity to recover quickly from difficulties; toughness. Our industry, over the past 18 months, has demonstrated resilience! Both in response to the bushfire disaster and COVID19. The industry resilience has been driven by our peoples resilience – without our people we don't have an industry.

The theme of our 2021 Australian Coatings Show conference, hosted by the Surface Coatings Association Australia, is “Resilience from Adversity... it's in our DNA”. The theme, and this conference, is an opportunity for us to reflect, and recognise, our industries resilience. An opportunity for us to come together, re-group, and re-connect after a tough 2020. It also gives us an opportunity to define our path forward – how can we incorporate the resilience that our industry, our people, have shown in to our coatings.

The 2021 Australian Coatings Show Committee invites you to submit papers for consideration for the technical program of the conference relating to the theme of resilience. Your paper could relate to new technologies, research, applications, methodologies, strategies, ideas or challenges that the industry may face in the future and must think about now.

All papers are to be prepared to the level for publication in the standard scientific journal format – commercial names etc. are strongly discouraged with the focus to be on technically relevant information and data. An abstract of the paper, together with details of the author/presenter, should be sent to the Technical committee for perusal prior to the conference. Details of the conference format and delivery of the presentation will be discussed with presenters when the final program has been set. Remote presentations are encouraged to consider applying.

Closing date for abstracts – cob Friday 26th February 2021
